THE PLACE TO GET THIN HAVE

BY CRANSTON & NORMAN,

FRIDAY MORN'G AUG, 20, 1851.

10 Mr. Scherb's Lecture on Monday evening, introductory to his course on some of the chief Poets of Europe, was one of the most beautiful, philosophical and pretical statements of the " nature, mission, and prospects of Poetry" which we ever heard. There were only twe things to regret, -the dimness of the lights and the smallness of the endience, circumstances, however, which did not dim nor dull the spirit of the speaker .--We trust that, at some lature time, our colleges will have an opportunity of hearing a production of such uncommon justness and beauty. Meanwhile we do hope that those who have a soul for intellectual beauty (and if it were not useless to say it, we would add to those who have not,) would attend the remaining Lecture or Lectures of Mr. Scherlie course. We can assure them as the time for hidding adien to the muthat they would carry away with them thoughts and impressions that would long remain with them as light ideals over the dusty road of life.

ਉੰਮਾ The Grand Dress Ball takes place at the Ocean House, this evening, From the arrangements which have been, and are being, made, we think it will be a brilliant affair, and will probably he more numerously attended than the Fancy Balls have been, for the last two years. There will be an trouble about selecting and arranging a Fancy Costume, and this will no doubt induce many to attend, who would not otherwise be there. The full Germania Society will perform, and Mr. Weaver will fornish an excellent Supper.

IF? The grand steamhoat excursion to Providence, by the steamer Perry, to witness the exhibition of Perham's Seven Mile Mirror, takes place to day. The Perry leaves here at 5 o'clock, A. M. and 2 P. M.; returning, will leave Provideace at 9 o'clock, A. M., and at 6 P. M. Face for the excursion, including admission to the exhibition of the Panorasin, only fifty cents. The Newport Brass Band will accompany the excurtion. Do not fail to go.

Hon Levi Won ibury is reported to be seriously fil at his homestead in Portsmouth, N. H.

D'The last Grand Instrumental ciety, will probably be given at Believue Ball, to-morrow evening.

Tie celebrated Swiss Bell Ringers will give a Concert at Ocean Hall, Monlay evening.

Selectio Deguerred types -- Whoever wishes a striking and graphic likeness executed in the highest style of the art, and enc' sed in a rich and magnificent case, can be accommodated by calling at Mr. Lawrence's Rooms, opposite the Atlantic House, Mr. Tilley who has charge of the Rooms, is a young artist of fine taste and great skill, and deserves the liberal patronage which we are pleased to learn he is already receiving from the public. Ever since the origin of this art, we have watched the progress of the different men engaged in it with pleasure, and the improvements by Tilley, account for the liberal patronage bestowed upon him.

New York, Aug. 27. The Newark Daily Advertiser publishes this afternoon the following which is said to have been received in a private despatch from Capt. Lewis:

The steamer Pampero, which took Gen Lopez to Bahia Honda, has since landed in safety at the same point Gen. Guizalce, from Jacksonville. Florida, with a large party of men and munitions. The tecops under Lopez were in Pessessie; of fort Saint Mariel, where there is: good landing; and all friends of the expedition can come in eafety at any time They had also taken the Spanish was steamer Pizarro, which is aground, an is to be used as soon as she can be go off. Capt Levis is now on his way towards New York, and expects to take on board any parties who will meet her and take them to Baint Moriel; and they see the lone starting floating eve the fort Lopez is safe, and if no flag is seen, they turn about and return hear Capt. Lewis was hotly pursued by a Spanish cruiser, but had the fertune : tiffect for escape.

The season at Newport is growing apace; summer is wearing fast, and fashion and gayety are on the increase, eie and the ball-room draws near! The GOcean House's has been the scene of many queer and remantic incidents, much mirth and some sadness during the present summer. I should not dare to breathe all that I know and have heard. Nelly, even to the winds that pass us by, without the power of telling the sad tides to hearte that would sicken and break at their recital. But it is said that there are spies in our madel, who do not intend sparing even the best behaved of us; then, again, it is believed there are others who not only spare the unweary, but are kind-hearted enough to warn them of the danger that awaits them from the scrutiny of the public eye. Such is the reputation of Mr. H ----, who has, I am sure, secured to himself more hearts, than he is untilline of possessing, by the annable consideration with which he listens to tales of scandal frequently poured into his cars, and his printence in guarding secrets confided to his care; - none may besitate to extel the goodness of this gentleman's character, if all the old wise people say of him be true; and certainly the chivalrons and high-toned honor of his conduct upon several occasions, when it is said that he might have limited himself at the expense of several fair and valuable reputations, deserves the highest commendation.

To speak of Newport during the Bathing reason as any other than a fashionable assembling, where hand meets hand, without any reference to heart would be to disappoint newspaper readers, and to be condemned at once as prosy and absurd. The natural attractions of the place and its vicinity are so great, however, that I can scarcely forbear speaking of them for your sake, who are so foud of the picturesque and beautiful. Of course, I could say nothing new of scenes that have so long fired the poet's pen, and waked to sweetest music the minstrel's barp; and even if I could, who would stop polking, eightsmoking or champagne-drinking long enough to enquire whence came my little gem of a thought. I believe however, if I had one, I should venture to put it down, and run the risk of its being observed by some choice and sympathetic spirits at ong the mothey croy d. I would venture to describe to you a sunret at Newport, if I could; but language would fail me; it is the heart alone that can feel the beauty of so glorious a scene. And then, Ocean is here before me,-but who has witnessed it in all its variety of storm and sunshine, with a more glowing soul than yourself! The uplife fort is in our midst also, with its proud, defying aspect the cliffs and the rock-bound coast, where the sycen hotstep of pleasure now so thoughtlessly treads upon the graves of shipwrecked mariners, -- all of which, in our private correspondence, we will let memory linger over, addibitua.

But what do people who are only on the quivire for gossip and scandal care and good behavior flowed towards the fir themes like these, even though they were handled by a liss humble pen libeard of. We advise such people not flammy own? What care they for to expose themselves so painfully any nature's achievements, while men in more; by a little hoof-reading and hallymoustaches cen revolutionize the hearts like observation, it is possible they might of women; and while women, with naquire some knowledge of what man-licks of love and eyes of freedom of love the of things we are for, it hop are victories over the hearts and souls of mere load of travelling than reading, men! Having read over the above sentence. cannot but smile gravely, for one would think from its style that I were the veriest cycle in the world, and no sharer in the fashionable follies, -- not so, however. I can say to the fair anbeloved of my frail and gentle rex, that no can copys the sport that calls feet. their metriest laughter, more than myrell,-yet, while I mingle in all things appertuising to gainty, I see much to ensent severaly upon, as well in ray-If us others -and so much do I feel within my off the strength and fascingtion of the current of workily pleasure, which, in spite of all the administrate of our own hearts, bears us imperceptally away from good, plain common-seaso duty, that if I had a daughter who-s peace of mind I valued, I would not allow her to vivit a public watering place. The world may sneer at untaught againters, and weenen not an fait in the ronventionalities of Instrionable life,-but I would rather run the rish of her nequiring courtsey from well-refrected horder and refinement of the ught and combafrom the few choice spirits her small circle at home might happily be blest with,-than take the fearful responsibility of leading her furth to the midet of a a world, whose contaminating influences taust gradually infest and destroy the innue parity of the heart.

My pen discourses gravely, Nelly. and my reflections are of a sombre character; but nevertheless, I go to all the Hops, and have missed none of the Concerts or Spices Dansantee, since I have been here.-- but, really, I do not enjoy the duncing,-it is the superb music of "the Germania Band" that attracts me and without which, Newport would be theroughly insignd to many others besides myself, I presume. I must here tell you of a little lit of excitement that recently eccurred, on their account.

Last Saturday evening Machana

Bouchelle, the distinguished Vocalis: gave a Concert, aided by the brilliant Germaniam -- which Concert I must not forget to tell you, as the lady gets coon to Boston, was attended by a Jarge and delighted audience; as soon as the accomplished artists had finished their part of the performance, they suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from the cene, apparantly without moving from heir positions-the audience was aghast what could have become of them! Harps, minstrels and all had vanished. For my part, I consoled myself with the thought that the angels, having become enumered of their sweet strains, had descended among them, and borne them away to join the scraphic choirs. But ali! no such bliss for mortal man or ministrol, as this however transcendent care and my be. It was discovered, upon examination, that they had gone through a trap door! Only think of it, Nelly, a trap-door! The Germamans will be more interesting now them ever,-fur there is an irresistible fascination in the very thought of any one ever having gone through a trap-door They must have found their way by a subterraneon passage to the drawingroom of the Ocean House, for there they were, on our return, with their harps in their hands,-and graceful, sylph-like women were dancing to their brilliant strains. Apropes, it is said that one or two of these gentlemen are tuon to attune their hearts to wedded bliss. I am sure that all will wish them as I do, lives of the most uninterrupted

I feel in the invol of describing to you some costumes and peculiarities of style that amuse me here,—so few know how to dress well, Nelly; but my letter is teo long—l'Il write you again.

You would be surprised to hear of the questions certain people living in cottages and about, ask of the Westirn la. -they wonder if they are human beings; "pray tell us something about them," said Mrs. s and so, whose position is of recent date, to a gentleman the other day; show do they dress, and what do they look like," asked Miss someholy or other, whose knowledge of Western statistics did not seem to suggest to her that the tide of refinement setting sun long before she was ever
